*Prospect Hill, success attend thee
All through the years;
Love and loyalty uplift thee
All through the years.
May our faith in thee change never,
Faith that guides and lights us ever,
Strength'ning bonds time will not sever
All through the years.*

*Thou hast harbor'd us, thy daughters,
All through the years.
Cherished, shielded, and inspired
All through the years.
As we turn, our footsteps leaving,
We'll return always believing:
You our destinies were weaving
All through the years.*

Prospect Hill

Foreword

We, the "Knights of The Round Table," personified by the class of nineteen hundred and sixty-one, prepare to bid a final farewell to the "Castle on the Hill." Before proceeding upon the journey in the quest for the "Holy Grail" of knowledge, we pause to reminisce of past tournaments and triumphs. Although our aims are turned toward future endeavors, in this scroll, we have tried to recapture highlights of the "days of yore."

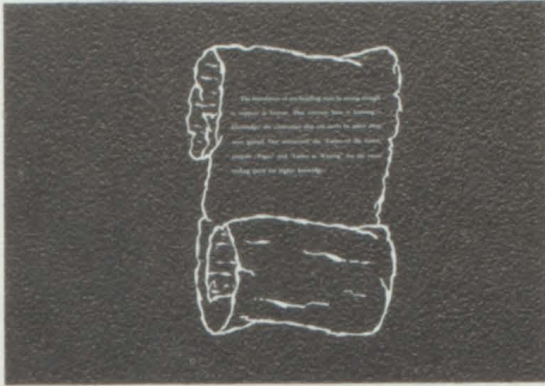

Dedication

Miss Katherine M. Rowley

Patience, kindness, intellect, and good humor are only a few of the outstanding qualities that we are able to attribute to a truly fine person. Miss Rowley has been a constant inspiration to our class. The gratitude we feel goes much deeper than can be expressed in words. With sincerest appreciation, we, the class of Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-One dedicate this, our yearbook.

The foundation of any building must be strong enough to support it forever. This concrete base is learning — knowledge; the commodity that can never be taken away, once gained. Our instructors, the "Ladies of the Court," prepare "Pages" and "Ladies in Waiting" for the never-ending quest for higher knowledge.

Student Council

The Student Council is responsible for upholding the school rules, planning extra-curricular activities, and raising funds for any projects which concern the student body. It has been concerned mainly with promoting school spirit and serving as a voice through which the students have expressed their opinions.

Its efforts have been fruitful, as proved by reaching and passing the Magazine Campaign goal, an accomplishment for which the girls received a one day vacation. The annual fair, whose theme was International Christmas, was a wonderful social and financial success. The first Prospect Hill Handbook, which served the purpose of familiarizing students with rules and organizations, was printed and distributed this year. Upper School assemblies were extremely interesting, due to the efficiency of our Assembly Chairman. Considering all these accomplishments, the Student Council had a very successful and active year.

National Honor Society

The Prospect Hill Chapter of the National Honor Society was formed for the purposes of creating enthusiasm for scholarship, stimulating a desire for service, promoting worthy leadership, and encouraging character development.

Membership is based upon scholarship, service and character. In order to be eligible for membership, a student must have been on the Honor Roll at least once during the year and have the high recommendation of four teachers and the headmistress.

The Honor Society serves the school through such activities as having a table at the Fair, presenting assemblies, and taking charge of the bulletin board.

Membership in the National Honor Society is one of the highest honors in Prospect Hill School and is certainly something for which to strive.

Glee Club

The Prospect Hill Glee Club is directed under the leadership of the well-known J. T. Noë. Mr. Noë's expert training has developed voices enabling the club to be divided into three parts: Soprano I, Soprano II, and Alto, to add variety and more finesse to the productions.

The year's performances included caroling in French and English at the Mother-Daughter Luncheon and a "Tribute to Hammerstein" concert in conjunction with the Newark Academy Glee Club. To maintain tradition, the Glee Club will sing at Graduation.

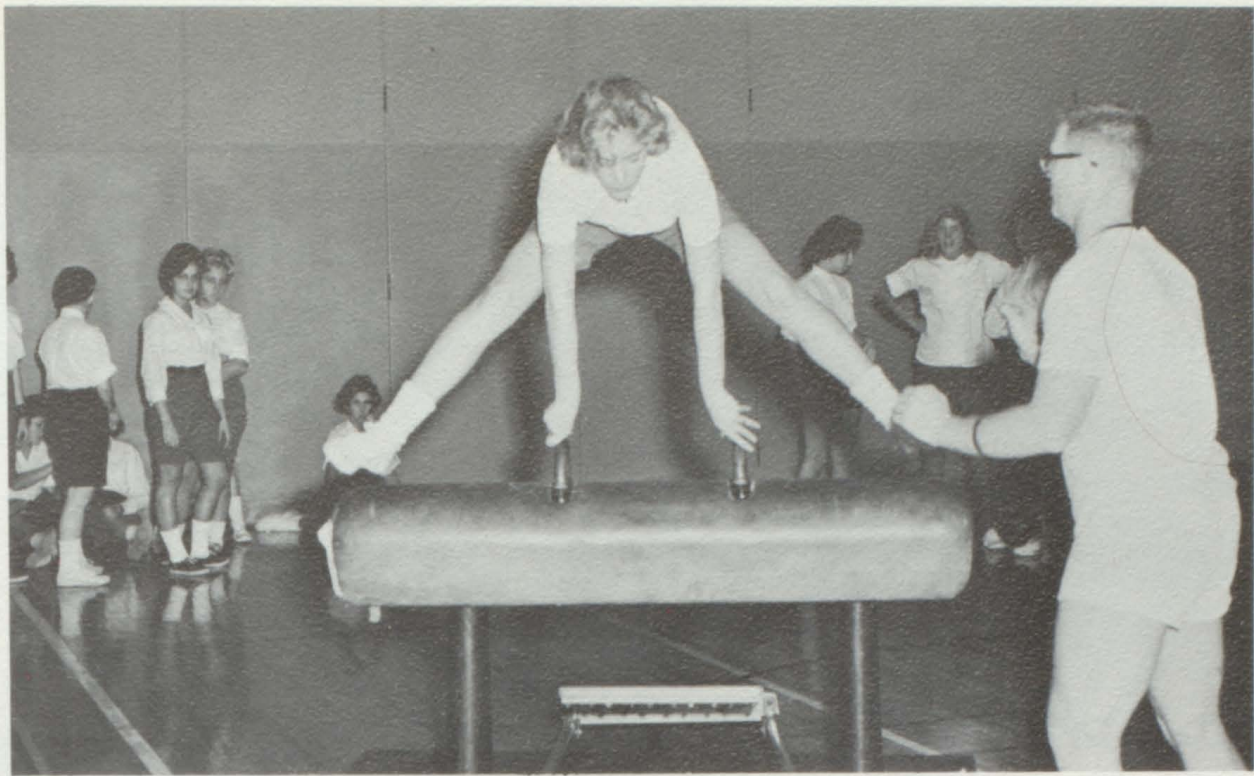

Bottom to top: Deborah Moehler, Kathleen Chadwick, Suzann Zurkow, Christine Fusaro, Vilette Ogden, Lynn Zwillman, President.

Athletic Association

This year the Athletic Association has endeavored to build healthy bodies and promote good sportsmanship.

The Thursday afternoon program at the Newark YM-YWCA has proven very successful under the leadership of Miss Jessica Cameron, the athletic advisor. Activities pursued vary with the taste of the individual.

Five week periods enable each girl to become more adept at various sports: such as, basketball, volleyball, archery, gymnastics and modern dance. The spring term brings warm weather and with it, softball and tennis at Branch Brook Park.
